Travel to Portugal

When you are at Lisbon Airport:

Transport to the city:

Bus: The Carris AeroBus departs every 20 minutes daily 0700-2100, to the city centre (journey time: 20 minutes) and the Cais do Sodré rail station. A one-day ticket costs €2,75 and includes further transport for that day on all trams, buses and metros. A three-day ticket costs €5,65. The AeroBus is free for TAP passengers, on presentation of used boarding passes when arriving and flight tickets when travelling to the airport. Carris' local buses 5, 8, 22, 44, and 83 also service the airport daily 0600-2130, while bus 45 runs until 0115 (journey time: 20-30 minutes). A single ticket costs €1 and a day ticket costs €2,35 .

Taxis are available 24-hours a day. The average taxi fare to the city centre is €10-17 (journey time: 15 minutes). The airport tourist information office also sells set fare vouchers for taxi rides to all areas of the city, which are normally more expensive, except during rush hours.

Taxi: This is the best option. You can ask for one in your hotel, at the reception desk.

The average taxi fare to the Training Centre is around €30 (journey time: 15-30 minutes)
